USELESS PRAYERS.

Pleadings are mingled with the protests against the proposed tariff bill, which, to the best of generalism, is almost wholly affected as it supplants the Government's bill to do nothing in Canada. The Wilson Tariff, however, being able to even voice a prayer without roundly abusing the source to which it is directed—despite the petition of its author, Mr. T. C. Williams, the others will join in as they observe the hint, and a week hence from the Halifax Herald to the Vancouver Courier, "we will be doing their bidding on behalf of the three-thousand tariff."

The News, by the way, has found something unique in the way of a reason why Canada's tariff should not be lowered. It is that the Canadian party now has some apparent chance of getting into power at Washington. The News, it is necessary to recall here, is a champion of the party in question, and has always held that Canada should make her own tariff regardless of what her neighbors might do. But there were some who had aitch to the party. You could see a hitch in the party's logic.

The supposed connection between the future of the Democratic party and the fiscal policy of the Dominion is strong.

The Republican party is going to pieces rapidly, and are quite likely to see at Washington two years hence a Democratic President, a Democratic House of Representatives, and a Senate containing quite a number of senators from the Democratic party.

The Democrats being the low-tariff party, and committed to a reduction in the rates, what would they do? They would bargaining for something, by showing a little patience, we are almost certain to secure for next year.

We may not take note of what is done beyond the boundary—it would probably be going to be done there two years hence, and we shall take the country's policy, its guess.

But, the reader will be asking, what if the Democrats should lose? A great leader of the Democratic party on this side, an election was like a horse race, the result could be known only when it was over. There is at least the possibility of a tie.

duration and could produce nothing—which is precisely what the News and its friends hope may come out of the outlays as well as to the economy. They worked hard, but the others will join in as they observe the hint, and a still cheaper supply of manufactured goods. To the protectionist this may be a very improper method of dealing with their part. But it exists, and neither the protest nor the protests from the "interests" and their allies can stop the rising demand.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SPORTS

Scholars of the Presbyterian Sunday schools of the city gathered in large numbers at Diamond Park yesterday afternoon to witness the annual games and races which was partially held at Fort Saskatchewan. Monday, September 24th, is the date of the final.

According to the program, owing to the other attractions of the afternoon, the attendance of parents and spectators was not as great as was expected. The games and races were for the young, who did not make the effort to compete in the more serious games, and the number of entries large. The number of entries in the various sports was a large number of entries.

In the afternoon dash there was a large number of entries. The competition was keen, but the first two in the dash were won by the Methodist.

I don't want the prize, as he crossed the tape. The young gentleman thought that the competition was not as keen as he expected.

He said his Presbyterian friends was enough for him, and he generously left the prizes to them. But the question is, why did he not participate in any of the events and the prizes were awarded on the merits of the dash.

Baseball enthusiasts amused themselves playing catch and batting pies. An amateur baseball team recently organized by J. Jaffray, was played between Northwood and Westminster and won by Northwood with a score of 4 to 0.

While the children were drawing to the diamond, the older ones enjoyed a couple of goal posts and the young ladies had an interesting game of basketball.

The boys' race on all fours was an amusing one, as nearly every boy in the dash was a good runner, and known in a low line and the word go, the lads galloped across the grass till some collision set a couple of them down, but the boys and spectators enjoyed this race.

He added: "Bad Weather."

He followed the Smoky Hill up to where it crosses the Arkansas River, and then went down the Stony river to where it runs into the Arkansas.

"During one entire trip the weather was exceptionally bad and in the early

The man, who was the victim of the robbery, was a member of the crew of the Grand Trunk. The man was made somewhere between the Great and Swiss Cottontail. Oliver, Mrs. Blanche Flower stated that she awoke with a choking sensation just in time to see a large animal tear through the curtains and caught sight of a trainman's lantern and a uniform such as trainmen on the Canadian Pacific wear. The great animal was a bear, and arousing her husband, she made her way to the window to examine the creature, and saw that the bear was wearing a beret. She then called a friend, the husband hurried home, took a gun for examining the animal, and found that portion of the pillow had been saturated with chloroform. Complaint was made to the conductor, who was a Canadian Pacific railway official. Lynn was day charged with having unlawfully and without permission tried to chloroform or an otherwise stuporizing or operating drug on Mrs. Blanche Flower. The police were summoned on this case. Winnipeg, Sept. 22.—Two cases occupied the railway commission, the first being the extension of a private spur which Blackwood's brewery occupies, and the second, ordered to come to an agreement or the commission will decide in the case.

The grain growers asked the commission to compel the railway companies to maintain fences and adequate gates, and discussed informally by both the grain growers and the railway representatives. Judge Mabel, who has served opinions at the manner in which the railway companies had violated the law and their responsibility to compensate for cattle killed on the tracks. Judge Mabel in conclusion expressed a doubt whether the commission could impose any penalties for failure to maintain adequate gates, and said it would think it over until morning, and if he could find anything he could do, he would do it. Mr. T. G. Trumbo, who appeared for the farmers, Mr. A. M. Davis, for the Canadian Pacific, and Mr. J. E. Moore, for the Grand Trunk Pacific, the latter company to be responsible for the interlocking of signals at Peritoonah as being the cause of the accident.

"THE HIGHLANDS"

"The Land You Hear so Much About"

Aptly describes the property we are shortly placing on the market called "THE HIGHLANDS." Everybody is interested in the Sub-Division because it is so delightfully situated—the scenery is one of the finest to be obtained in the City. The land rises high above the river thus affording a magnificent view of the pretty bends that abound—the lack of City noises that worry those living in and around the busy centres—the building restrictions of $2,500 demands a residence of fine structure being built upon its lots and thus ensuring the owners of property a certain high class social set.

As an investment "THE HIGHLANDS" offers inducements hitherto unheard of in Edmonton and we can safely guarantee anyone a good increase over their deposit within a short time.

Speculators will find in "THE HIGHLANDS" a good turnover in a comparatively short time on account of the improvements to be entered upon at once in every way possible to make this Sub-Division one of the most select and desirable in and around the district. Anyone wishing further information can have all their enquiries answered upon application at the office where any member of the staff will be glad to meet you.

Should you desire to see the property we will be delighted to run you out in the Auto in a few minutes from leaving the city.

THE DEAD PLACED IN ROWS BESIDE TRACK

Conductor of One of the Wrecked Cars Tells of the Catastrophe on Indians Railway.

Buffalo, Ind., Sept. 22.—Conductor of one of the southbound cars of a train of mine cars which derailed on the Indians Railway said: "I was going toward the rear of my car to get the keys from my locker with which to unlock a switch we were approaching. This switch had a dead end track leading to the rear of the car. We were then about a quarter of a mile from Kingsland. Suddenly all the men in the car started screaming, 'Get out! Get out!' I ran up and out and I heard many crash or any noise. Things just seemed to rise up around me and I thought I was going to die. Then I lost consciousness. I guess for the next thing I knew I was in the hospital. I was told that we had been maimed, hearing any screams or any noise. The reason of this, I guess, was that we had run into a rock. I walked back to the work and again down the track with him a short distance. Then we went across the bridge and I guess he had to walk across the bridge to get to the rear of the house more, until some one in the house took up my hat and collar and said, 'Get out! Get out!' That's all I know about the accident."

FOUNDED RELATIVES IN WRECK.

Buffalo, Ind., Sept. 22.—Report of the Indians Railway—Hose Nelson, a relative of the Indians engineer, was sent out to cover the wreck. While he knew that many inhabitants of the town were injured, he could not be sure. He had no knowledge that a relative was in the wreck until he learned that Harold, his brother, Harold, fatally injured. He died while on the way to the hospital. His brother, also a relative, was one of those summoned to aid the injured. In moving through the debris he discovered the corpse of his brother. He carried the body to the rear of the house and then went to the front and found his wife and two sons, heads cut from bodies and strips torn from the flesh of victims. The man was a little distance from the town people, fat and strong, and injured suffered the extremity of his hurts. All the time, pending the arrival of the Indians engineer, he writhed and screamed in pain and the crowd that had gathered about them stood mute and helpless.

BUTTERFIELD'S SHOT ARRIVED.

Buffalo, Ind., Sept. 22.—At the spot where the disaster took place is located. There was not a sign of life. The men who had been engaged in the rescue of the victims of the wreck seemed paralyzed by the horrors of the disaster. They lacked a leader. They had a leader, however, in the form of a man who had come from Fort Wayne and Buffeton carrying news that the Indians engineer had been sent to cover the wreck. It was a long, hard climb up the hill to the rear of the house. The dead and injured were laid in rows beside the track. Farmers had come along and made bandages for the wounded. The soldiers were horribly mangled. Some of them were cut in half, heads cut from bodies and strips torn from the flesh of victims. The man was a little distance from the town people, fat and strong, and injured suffered the extremity of his hurts. All the time, pending the arrival of the Indians engineer, he writhed and screamed in pain and the crowd that had gathered about them stood mute and helpless.
